Summary

The speaker welcomes colleagues back to Strasbourg, noting a drop in temperature. Despite no major decisions or strategies on the agenda, the meeting is well-attended with important topics and guests. New or replacing members from Ireland, Italy, Lithuania, the Slovak Republic, and Hungary (Agnes Bodac) are introduced, and the speaker looks forward to future cooperation.

Speaker 1: So, dear colleagues, welcome back to Strasbourg. I hope you brought some warm jumpers, as we had 24 degrees two days ago and now we have eight. So it's better to cuddle up in a smaller room here. So that's why it looks a bit cozier. Normally we are in a bigger space. So I welcome you all. Very happy to see you again. We have a large number of participants for this meeting, although we don't have any major decisions to take, so we don't have any strategy to adopt that. Yes, which is really, really good.

Speaker 2: That takes away a bit of pressure, so it will be a bit more stressless. But nevertheless, we have a very charged agenda, a very interesting one. We have very good guests, we have good exchanges of views with very important representatives of these organizations. I think we have also a number of new members or people replacing the nominated members. I think it's the case for Ireland. I don't think that she's already here. It's the case of Italy. You can take the floor for 30 seconds if you like, just to say hello, everyone. Very nice to meet you all. And I'm very happy to be here and looking forward to our cooperation.
